Patient Group Definition

Patient Groups include patient associations. They are organisations which focus on specific diseases or aspects of healthcare, representing and/or supporting the needs of patients and/or caregivers. These groups are mainly composed of patients and/or caregivers (family/friends), but can also be composed of consumers, seniors, women, minority populations or caregivers and may be led by advocacy professionals who may or may not have personal association with a given disease. Note some associations can be both a Medical or Scientific Association and a Patient Association in different parts (e.g. national/international vs. local), in this case it will be considered as one or the other based upon whether an activity or event is largely planned and intended for Health Care Professionals or patients. For the purposes of this exercise the "patient" activities/events should be included.

General Instructions

For each project, all fields should be completed. A red "X" in column A indicates that some fields are missing.
